

Fight or Flight

The fight-or-flight response refers to a physiological reaction that occurs when we are in the presence of something that is mentally or physically perceived as a threat of harm. Sometimes our Fight or Flight can become over-active. A deeper understanding of this system can be helpful in interpreting our reactions.

