

Circle of support

Grief is a natural, but painful process we experience after losing someone. In hard times, it helps to have a circle of close people you can turn. In the circle below write down who are your safe people?

